

The ice crust is capped with this week's new snow and is a great sliding surface for wet avalanches. This picture was taken in Texas Meadow near Bridger Bowl. The crust here is 1" thick while in Taylor Fork it is 3" thick. In both areas it is supportable. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Bridger Range

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Wed Mar 22, 2017

